The large crowd of 5,000 persons at Delta Fair had an unexpected -- on its closing day. An aeroplane from Camp Mohawk became lost in the fog and got off course, then being almost out of gas, had to find a place to land. The pilot circled the fairground twice and then made a safe landing near the station. After obtaining a supply of fuel, he attempted to rise from the rough ground and crashed into the wire fence, breaking off the propeller. The pilot was not injured, but the aircraft had to be loaded on a large truck and taken back to base.
